

Qualify & Prioritize Seller Leads

Spend Time Where It Matters Most

📌 Introduction to Lead Qualification & Prioritization

This lesson teaches you how to identify which seller leads are truly motivated—and how to focus your time on the ones most likely to convert. Not every lead is equal, and without a system, you'll waste time chasing dead ends.

You'll learn how to evaluate leads using four key pillars, organize them using a CRM or lead sheet, and apply simple scoring or color-coding systems. These tools will help you work smarter, stay organized, and close more deals with less stress.

✅ What to Expect and How It Works

This lesson covers:

- What it means to qualify a lead and why it's important
 - The four pillars of a motivated seller
 - How to organize leads in a CRM or spreadsheet
 - Two simple systems for prioritizing outreach
 - How much time this process takes
 - What to say on calls to uncover motivation
 - How to use this system to focus your energy where it counts

📌 What Does It Mean to Qualify a Lead?

- Identify a seller's true motivation
 - Understand their timeline, property condition, and asking price
 - Avoid wasting time on curious or unmotivated leads
 - Turn lead sorting into a smart, repeatable process

📌 Why Qualifying Matters

- Helps you follow up smarter, not harder
- Prevents good leads from slipping through the cracks
- Improves your close rate with the same number of leads
- Gives you clarity on where to focus your daily efforts

📌 The 4 Pillars of a Qualified Seller

- Motivation: Why are they selling?
 - Timeline: When do they want to sell?
 - Condition: What shape is the property in?
 - Price: Are they asking retail or open to a fair offer?
- If a lead scores well in at least 3 of these 4 areas, it's a high-priority lead.

📌 How to Track in a CRM or Lead Sheet

- Use your CRM or spreadsheet to log each pillar
- Rate each from 1–5, or use red/yellow/green tags
- Total the scores to quickly spot hot leads
- Reorder your follow-up list based on score or color each week

📌 Two Simple Prioritization Systems

Color Coding:

- Green = Hot (ready to sell now)
- Yellow = Warm (needs more nurturing)
- Red = Cold (low urgency or motivation)

Lead Scoring:

- 15–20 = Hot
 - 10–14 = Warm
 - Under 10 = Cold
- This helps you triage quickly and focus your time.

📌 Time & Cost Investment

- Takes 2–4 minutes per call to gather info
- About 30–60 minutes per week to review and sort leads
- Can be done with REI Blackbook, Google Sheets, or paper

- Low cost, high return when used consistently

📌 How to Ask the Right Questions

- “What’s got you thinking about selling now?”
 - “How soon are you hoping to move?”
 - “Any updates or repairs recently?”
 - “Do you have a price range in mind?”
- Natural questions like these uncover each of the four pillars without pressure.

📌 Final Thought: Not All Leads Are Equal

- Don’t treat every lead the same—some are more ready than others
- Prioritize weekly so your follow-up stays sharp
- This process builds confidence and momentum with less guesswork

🎯 Student Challenge – Score & Prioritize 10 Leads

Here’s how to apply what you’ve learned:

- Choose 10 leads from your CRM, notes, or calls
- Score each based on the four pillars (1–5), or assign a red/yellow/green tag
- Reorder your list so the hottest leads are at the top
- Follow up with your top 2–3 leads this week
- Share your results in the Partner Driven community

This one habit—qualifying and prioritizing—can completely shift your results. Keep doing it weekly, and your close rate will climb.
