

Web-Based Ads

How to Get Online, Get Seen, and Start Getting Leads

Introduction to Web-Based Advertising

This lesson introduces web-based advertising as one of the fastest and most flexible ways to generate motivated seller leads online. These are the ads you see on Google, Facebook, Instagram, and other websites—designed to get attention and drive real results.

As a real estate investor, this gives you full control over your budget, message, and audience. You'll learn how to target the right people, test different ads, and create a system that works even while you're offline.

What to Expect and How It Works

This lesson covers:

- What web-based advertising is and why it works
 - How to launch your first campaign on a small budget
 - The power of targeting and retargeting
 - What makes a strong web ad
 - Where to place your ads for best results
 - A 5-day challenge to help you get started fast

Why Web-Based Ads Work

- Instant visibility—your ad can start showing in minutes
- Precision targeting—choose ZIP codes, age, interests, and more
- 24/7 lead generation—even while you sleep
- Retargeting keeps you top-of-mind after one click

 Example: A seller who sees your ad today might click tomorrow—and submit their info while you're off the clock.

Budget and Time Investment

- Facebook/Instagram ads: Start with $5–$10/day
- Google Search ads: Also effective for local seller phrases like “sell my house fast”

- Setup time: 1–2 hours to create and launch
 - Check daily in the beginning, then weekly once stable
 - You control everything—pause, adjust, or stop anytime

📌 What Does “Targeting” Mean?

- Targeting defines who sees your ad
 - Choose ZIP code, city, age, gender, and even interests
 - Example: Only show ads to homeowners 40+ in Tampa, FL
 - Saves money by only reaching the right people

📌 Retargeting – What It Means and Why It Works

- Retargeting shows your ad again to people who already visited your page or clicked but didn’t act
 - Just like ads that follow you after shopping online—yours can do the same
 - Helps you stay visible without cold calling
 - Built into Facebook, Instagram, and Google—just turn it on

📌 Where to Get Help or Hire Talent

- YouTube tutorials (search “Facebook ads for real estate” or “Google ads beginner”)
 - Fiverr or Upwork freelancers: $50–$200 for setup
 - Ask local college marketing/design students for affordable help
 - Beginner setup budget: $50–$200 + $150–$300/month ad spend

📌 What Makes a Good Web Ad?

- Clear headline: “We Buy Houses in [City] – As-Is, Any Condition”
 - Strong call to action: “Get a Cash Offer Today” or “Call Now”
 - Link to a short seller form (name, address, price, timeline)
 - Helps qualify leads and tells you who’s ready to talk

Where to Place Web-Based Ads

- ✓ Facebook Ads – Target by city or ZIP code with clear offers
- ✓ Instagram Ads – Great for short video content and mobile users
- ✓ Google Search Ads – Reach sellers actively searching to sell
- ✓ Bonus: Create a free Google Business Profile at google.com/business

Choose the platform that best fits your comfort level and where your sellers are spending time.

Key Takeaways

- Web ads provide fast, flexible access to local sellers
 - You control your message, spend, and targeting
 - Retargeting helps convert interest into action
 - Simple, clear ads that lead to a form are the most effective
 - One good ad can generate multiple qualified leads

Student Challenge – Launch Your First Web Ad

Try this challenge in the next 5 days:

- Choose one platform: Facebook, Instagram, or Google
- Use this sample headline: “We Buy Houses in [Your City] – As-Is, Any Condition”
- Set your daily budget to $5 or $10
- Link to a simple form asking for name, address, asking price, and timeline
- Run the ad for 5 days and track views, clicks, and leads
- Optional: Ask a freelancer or local student for help
- Bonus: Set up your Google Business Profile

 You're just one ad away from connecting with a motivated seller. Get online and give it a shot.
